Letting Go (Hans York)

I know you said you wanna leave
Your love is gone I can't believe
That everything we had
Will just be memories
It takes a while to understand
I could not see that it would end
And nothing that I say or do
Can ever change your mind

I take a breath, step aside, let the river flow
Beautiful I realize, that's all I need to know

Letting go, letting go, letting go
Letting go, letting go

I sit beside your bed at night
Hold your hands in candlelight
Remember when I was a child
You did the same for me.
The years have past way too fast
I wish your life would ever last
Now I need to let you go
Into the great unknown

I take a breath, step aside, let the river flow
Beautiful I realize, that's all I need to know

Letting go, letting go, letting go
Letting go, letting go

In life there is one certainty
All is changing constantly
Now is here not yesterday
Tomorrow no one knows
If everything is said and done
And time has come to move on
I accept whole-heartedly
Whatever it may be

I take a breath, step aside, let the river flow
Beautiful I realize, that's all I need to know

Letting go, letting go, letting go
Letting go, letting go
