End Credits is a musical theme composed by Hans Zimmer for Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides. It appeared as a track on the film's soundtrack.

The track begins with He's a Pirate, which is identical to what's heard in the previous Pirates films, but with the addition of Rodrigo y Gabriela. The track then moves into Jack's action theme from "Jack Sparrow", with the Spanish guitars taking over the pedal note at the top, and the mermaid choir singing chord notes over the main melody. The track ends with a brief reprisal of the action theme first heard in "The Black Pearl". As the title suggests, this track plays during the the first part of the ending credits to Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides.

Aside from a few minor additions changes, including the Spanish guitar take by Rodrigo y Gabriela, the track is identical to the end credits of Dead Man's Chest. There is no new music in this track. An expanded edition of End Credits, heard in the demo, features the full suite, showcasing all the major new themes from On Stranger Tides.
