I thought I heard you making the coals
Underneath a lonely man's soles
Why can't you just let it all go
Then I start to go down

I heard him say life is a joke
His life burnt like acid rain smoke
Why can't you love what you don't know
Then I start to go

Down, down, down
Way too low
I start to go
Down, down, down
You can't pull up anymore
Once you've gone down
Down, down, down, down

I heard me say, what it's worth
You just get pain for all your life's work
I'll just crawl into my black hole
Then I, start to go

Down, down, down
Way too low
I start to go
Down, down, down
You can't pull up anymore
Once you've gone down

My Superman's all covered in rust
All of my dreams gone bust
This time I've fallen down,
Stuck in this rut
Maybe I'll try falling up
'Cause I've fallen far enough
I start to go

Down, down, down
Way too low
I start to go
Down, down, down
I can't pull up anymore
I start to go down down down
You can't pull up anymore
Once you've gone down
