With a pocket full of reasons
And the empty hands that choose to hold The comfort of a life once filled with hope But now the hope is fading and you're losing faith in purity
You're torn between what's right and what you need

Nobody ever told you, how dark the sky could turn from blue
Nobody ever sold you oh, more than one mistake Nobody ever told you, how deep the water gets when you jump in

Now you're reachin' out for somethin'
That amounts to nothin' once again
A silent life degraded even more
The you that you now love is a lie

Nobody ever warned you, no one could even reach you there
Nobody ever taught you, don't ever lose control
And no one ever told you, so out of your mind

Rise on water, I need to see you Rise on water, rise on water and leave, oh

Nobody ever told you, how dark the sky could turn from
Nobody ever sold you oh, more than one mistake
Nobody ever told you, how deep the water gets when you jump in

Rise on water, I need to see you
Rise on water, oh, rise on water, oh
