"In The Darkness"

In the darkness of the night, I sometimes wonder was I right to leave you Love without a smile, without a word, when all the while it hurt inside, to Say goodbye, as you went, for another try at loving me, at pleasing me.

But though I try to leave you still afforded by against your will to tie me Down, and make me stay, to keep the hills and seas at bay, to maketh me, a Lonely man, a loving, but a lonely man, then just forgive, that's what you Try to do.

And now within an empty day, I feel an ache about the way I let you end, I Said goodbye, in case we meet, and want to try, again my love, to build a Wall, to keep out, everything but all, our love could mean, oh what our Love could mean.
