I, I just..this will be the last time
If you leave I just want to fall...
This will be the last time
If you leave, I want to close my eyes
And imagine what is going on around me
As I fall through the sky...
This will come back to me a thousand times
The sound of the wind would cripple
The hearing of any other noise
Violently I would reach the thick, gray clouds
And take a deep breath
If you leave I, ive washed away sins
From my mind
Time, this all will be just wasted time
The cool air would fill my lungs
You says it's hardly bleeding
I would feel the water droplets
Form on my face
As I raced downward toward earth
But you can't see as closely as I can
Feel faster and faster
We have all bled before
I would plummet toward the ground
We all know
It heals and goes away
It would be so cold
You can't understand why
I want it to stay chill
Bumps would cover my ice cold body
Thoughts of how great things change
Are at the moment
And if your promise not to try
Would dominate my mind thoughts
Of the future gone forever...
I promise worries of what has happened
Will be left in the clouds
The clouds would rain those worries
Somewhere else
This time strange though
I think I hear traffic
I won't hurt you
