the mystery among the daily frames a native crowd underlines crime somewhere the brains create profit by some well organized disinterest contentment overfed with feigned luxury we didnt recognize the screen a troublesome smile overshadows the brightened sky trustful

it wraps up any movement towards outside views reduced to a single moment of truth infecting all of us something strange led us into a cage paralysed the non-existent protect haunted by a perfect dream trying to leave we didnt regonize the screen ignorance regulates the degree of reality offers me harmony integrates me open eyes for a while but didn't recognize that the sun doesn't shine
