Your hollow, it's shallow
All the cowards set in silence
It's so hard, to swallow
When you're someone that nobody wants
(I'm the one asking questions here)
About all the devils and tyrants
(I hope you hear me loud and clear)
I'll be the only speaking out

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until we meet again

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the judgement day

We're battered and broken
All the member said in frustration
(We're not getting any younger here)
How about a declaration?

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until we meet again

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the judgement day

Battered and broken
These words are spoken in despairs

Battered and broken

These words are spoken in despairs
And you don't even care
[X3]

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the judgement day

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away (slipping away)
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until we meet again (until we meet again)

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away (slipping away)
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the judgement day
