"Until The Judgment Day"

You're hollow and shallow
All the cowards said in silence
It's so hard to swallow
When you're someone that nobody wants

I'm the one asking questions here
About all the devils and tyrants
I hope you hear me loud and clear
I'll be the only one speaking out

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until we meet again

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the Judgment day

We're battered and broken
All the members said in frustration
We're not getting any younger here
So how about a declaration

Just call my name out loud
Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until we meet again

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the Judgment day

Battered and broken
These words are spoken in despair
We're battered and broken
These words are spoken in despair
And you don't even care

We're battered and broken
These words are spoken in despair
And you don't even care

We're battered and broken
These words are spoken in despair
And you don't even care

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Don't look back, don't you ever look back
Until the Judgment day

Just call my name
When it feels like you're slipping away
Until we meet again

Just call my name
