Whispers in a dream
The world is quiet and waiting
And all around the air is still
Then sings the angel.
When all has come to pass
The storm has breathed its last
And the rain has washed our fears away
Love will fall.
Whispers in the wind
The clouds part to let the light in
And all around the people sigh
As birds take to the sky.
When all has come to pass
The storm has breathed its last
And the rain has washed our fears away
Love will fall
On us all
The world will smile again
Whispers in a dream
The world is quiet and waiting
And all around the air is still
Then sings the angel
When all has come to pass
The storm has breathed its last
And the rain has washed our fears away
Love will fall
On us all
And we can smile again
