Is there a place that we can go to teach the children not
to grow?

Where lovers don't remember where they met and heartbreak is easy to forget?

Is there no love to speak of?

I'm looking for a new place to call home

near me

I've got to find it because I'm not seeing clearly

There is someone knocking on my door

No one lives here anymore

Don't I know you?

You've got to believe me

We met yesterday

Don't I know you?

I don't believe this bar is closing sir

Don't I know you? ( I guess I never did)

Is there a place that we can go to teach the children not
to grow?

Where lovers don't remember where they met and
heartbreak is easy to forget?

near me

I've got to find it because I'm not seeing clearly

There is someone knocking on my door

No one lives here anymore

There is no love
