This is where you walk in
And tell me how I've been
There's no milk left to spill
Just another headache pill

Shaving in a broken mirror
Bathing in a shower of splinters
Your touch is like a cold burn of winter

And I should feel better
Should be better made
And I could feel better
Should be better made

This is where you walk out
A cradle for my doubt
Your kingdom for my pain
My overcoat for your rain

Take the highs and feel the lows
Find the space between the rows
Pleasure for an empty soul

And I should feel better
Should be better made
And I should feel better
Should be better made

This is where I am from
This is where I belong
This is where I am from

And I should feel better
Should be better made
And I should feel better
Should be better made

And I should feel better
Should be better made
And I should feel better
Could be better made
