"Black Unicorn"

I am he that knocks on your windowpane,
I am he that stalks the night
I am he with silver shot through my mane, you'll dream of me with fire-eyes bright If you ever meet me standing there, you'll wish that you were never born I'll seize your soul and strip it bare,
I am the Black Unicorn

My horn is forged of silver fire, my shoulders bear leathern wings
I am the nightmare of your own desire,
I am the song that the Devil sings Hellfire dancing in my eyes, my coat is as black as coal Mortals are so quick to hypnotize, and then I merely take your soul

Teeth sharp as daggers cooled in the snow, and hooves that burn through the ground Follow me not where I lead you to go, for then your soul will be devil-bound There is but one who rides my back, and keeps his soul ever free His heart is cold and will not crack, and he is as cursed as me
