An insurrection of the lost
With courage born from despair
An end for the years of anguish
A battle in the nation's heart

Uprising of the lost
In the abyss between the worlds
They all averted their eyes
A home behind the enemy's lines

They raped and burned our fatherland
We know that nothing shall remain; there's no
tomorrow,
We'll bring it to an end; there's no tomorrow

Uprising of the lost
In the abyss between the worlds
They all averted their eyes
A home behind the enemy's lines

Our souls scorched with our homes
But willful we hold our ground
Our souls scorched with our homes
But willful we hold our ground; ground

Uprising of the lost
In the abyss between the worlds
Red vultures awaiting our end
A home behind the enemy's lines

Ragged figures but brothers and sisters we are Through fields of debris we crawl
Red vultures awaiting our end
A home behind the enemy's lines; the enemy's lines
