One by one they fall - and I just close my eyes.
It won't be over soon - do you regret this time?
I thought so many things were certain.
So many friends turned to the ones I hate.
You fade away forever - the hands of time.
I wanna see the things just how they are feel them, like a child would do.
Will this kid in me will survive this process?
Narrowed minds - I'll burst your mental chains even, if
I'll live like them - my heart is free.
I won't become a tool, a puppet.
I'll bite the hand that wants to feed me.
My will to live against your world of zombies.
Blindfold the eye, that watches all of us and even, if I live like them my heart is free.
I'll never walk your way - whatever it may take.
You never break my will - whatever it may take.
