

Heavy D & The Boyz "The Overwieght Lover's In The House"

Visit "The Overwieght Lover's In The House" on MotoLyrics.com

Yesterday I broke my favorite chair
The crack was always sitting there
And on my way to work I fell asleep
But that girl reminded me of another girl I used to see
And it just continued haunting me all day long
You won't recognize the sound my engine makes
With all the tires and squeaky breaks
But everybody makes mistakes I guess?
But that girl reminded me of another girl I used to see
And it just continued haunting me all day long
I just want a ride but it's just gonna hurt
'Cause I can't effect what I don't know I broke
Just like that tell another joke
The sticks are woven in the spokes again
I can't effect what I don't know I broke
Just like that tell another joke
The sticks are woven in the spokes again
I came home to find my neighbors gone
From a teenage car parked in the lawn
I thought of all the ways that things have changed
So it's true I never challenged you
Why do you always challenge me?
I don't get paid to see what to Sing what ever you wanna speak of
And I just wanna lie but it's just gonna hurt
'Cause I can't effect what I don't know I broke
Just like that tell another joke
The sticks are woven in the spokes again
'Cause I can't effect what I don't know I broke
Just like that tell another joke
The sticks are woven in the spokes again

Visit Heavy D & The Boyz page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.