The time has come, come to make a choice
Forgotten by our government I thought it was my voice
As the truth starts to become apparent
You know it was lies the politicians talent
Tats, beer, music our world wide bond
In a white collar world they sing a different song
When you meet in the street remember walk proud
You made your country strong the system let us down

How many times listen to faces full of lies
How Many times going to stand alone not even try
It's only time before I hit you right between the eyes
Can't waste my time its my life until I die

The reward you get for your aches and pains
Is a weekly insult no chance for gains
For years you're stuck
Between dealers and homeless
The Man in the middle always doing his best
Are you still proud of who and what you are
You can bet your sweet ass the boss likes his new car
We go our way and they go theirs
Then greed takes over and who the fuck cares

How many times listen to faces full of lies
How Many times going to stand alone not even try
It's only time before I hit you right between the eyes
Can't waste my time its my life until I die

The money makers in their pressed wool suits
I got sweat on my face and dirt on my boots
When you're handing me my last paycheck
With a smile on your face cause your a lying prick
The companies going south and are you going with it
The bank wants my house and everything in it
Seen it in others eyes like a failure left alone
You're a working class hero from the day you were born
