"Jump Baby, Jump"

There's a hole in the ground, as big as a cloud
When you yell by it's edge, it gets so fucking loud
Well that's where I go, where my echo talks back
Oh, It's an old conversation that I can't outlast
Just infatuation that died way too fast

So I dig out the words, that are stuck in my mind
The ones that I taste, from time to time
And they bring back the smell, that I miss in the dark
Oh, from a woman who's skin, tore me apart
But down by the hole I'm still close to the mark

So I call out, out to my love, so long she's lost
And back from the ravine, I hear her shout
Jump baby jump

I feel nothing but calm, As I lie on my back
The stars start to dance, and my fingers come back
To the body I've spent, all my days inside
Oh my heart's had enough, now it's open wide
A desert flower in bloom with dew drops it hides
