

Helldorado "The Black Winds"

Visit "The Black Winds" on MotoLyrics.com

The liner is waiting and once again I'm leaving For a far off land where I'll constantly be grieving But not for the sake of the absentee mountain
But for the sake of that girl I met by the fountain

So fare thee well, so long my own true love

As time goes by, the faithless days grow longer
As the nights slowly pass, my ache for thee grows stronger
Stronger than the black winds on the dark and raging main Stronger than the whiskey I drink for to ease my pain
So fare thee well, so long my own true love

I've been wounded and worn out and both my knees have been broken I've been shot at and beaten but not a word of complaint I have spoken For there's nothing that hurts like the sufferin' of being away from thee
When thou are on the mountain and I'm on the dark rolling sea

So fare thee well, so long my own true love

Visit Helldorado page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.