You throw away the future we faced
You should've known better than to walk away
One last time

It's feeling like we're falling out of place
I think it's time to look inside look inside
Now look behind my heart that's racing faster when
We're on and off and on again

These signals, they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
This situation's dragging on and on again
These signals they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
These complications have me shaking my head but I won't be shaken

Falling in my arms you lie awake
I take apart the look that's on your face
On last time
It's feeling like it's all too much too take
I think it's time to look behind, look behind
'Cause ever time my eyes are aching for an end

We're on and off and on again

These signals, they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
This situation's dragging on and on again
These signals they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
These complications have me shaking my head but I
won't be shaken

Too far too late too much to take
Feels like the breaks are wasting my time away
Another heartache
Tangled but I won't pretend we're on again

These signals, they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
This situation's dragging on and on again

These signals, they take a piece of my heart
It feels as though we're falling apart
These complications have me shaking my head but I
won't be shaken
