Dear Jamie, I've got a letter I would like to send.
It's lacking strings of words with punctuation at the ends.

But should I trust this dialect,
To convey the right effect?

Dear Jamie, I've got some things I'd like to set in pen.
I would have used a pencil but leads just not permanent.

But should I trust my printer's ink,
To express the things I think?

Every page I tried my best to think of something to
contest;
With inside jokes and other folks who've got much
more to say.

Dear Jamie, this envelope will represent my heart.
I'll seal it send it off and wish it luck with its depart.

And this stamp will be every action that carried my affection:
Across the air and land and sea.

But should I trust the postage due,
To deliver my heart to you?

Every page I tried my best to think of something to
contest;
With inside jokes and other folks who've got much
more to say.

Every page I tried my best to fill with something to
contest;
With inside jokes and other folks who've got much
more to say.

I'll give you all I can,
A flower and a hand.

I hope this helps you see.
Signed, sincerely me.
