Born into a neighborhood that ain't exactly rich
Never knew his father and his mother was a bitch
Oh no
Didn't have a place to go

Grown up in the streets
He learned to take just what he needs
Violence and crime the only answer he believes
Oh no
Your emotions you don't show

How can you ever give up
When you never were scared?
How can you ever forgive
Without learning to blame?

See the night
That's where you're living
Feel the dark
That seems to follow you
See the stars
I see you crying
See the stars
You wished that one of them just shines for you
After you're gone

Unemployed and full of hate
You're dealing with cocaine
One day you will end up with a needle in your brain
Oh no
As you slowly go insane

How can you ever be good
When you don't see a reason?
How can you trust an old friend
When you don't even care for one?

See the night
That's where you're living
Feel the dark
That seems to follow you
See the stars

I see you crying
See the stars
You wished that one of them just shines for you
After you're gone

All you know is what you see
You see society is treating you bad
No more visions, no more hope
Your future is a cold, cold cell
I send you to hell

Falling so deep into darkness
Crawling so deep in the dark
Give me a chance to regret what I've done
Only if I can explain

See the night
Feel the dark
That seems to follow you
See the stars
I see you crying
After you're gone
