A vision in the vanity is how I stand my ground.
Encircled by insanity as the earth goes 'round.
I struggle with the spiritual and the physical, too.
There's no way I can make it 'til I turn to You.
The universe is filled with all my troubles,
They're as many as the stars at night.
But my little world revolves around You.
For me, You're the start and the finish
And a hope for a future that's bright.
The trendy and the trivial are stealin' all my time;
Invasion of the visual on a sensual mind.
There's no where to run, makes you wanna hide.
But You're my ticket to paradise.
The universe is filled with all my troubles
They're as many as the stars at night.
But my little world revolves around You.
For me, You're the start and the finish
And a hope for a future that's bright.
My little world resolves around You
I know You're the start and the finish
And the fact and the answer that's right!
My little world!
My, my, my little world!
The universe is filled with all my troubles
They're as many as the stars at night.
But my little world revolves around You.
For me, You're the start and the finish
And a hope for a future that's bright.
My little world resolves around You
I know You're the start and the finish
And the fact and the answer that's right!
My little world resolves around you
My, my, my
My little world resolves around you
My little world
My little world, world, world!
My little world!
