

Henry Rollins "Spilling Over The Side"

Visit "Spilling Over The Side" on MotoLyrics.com

Oh man, I can't believe the things I said to you
I must have been out of my mind
Desperation crept in
From all the things I've kept in
I'm sorry I just couldn't help myself
I can tell by look in your eyes
That you think I'm a fool
It's alright, it's too late to turn back now
I'm throwing these lines out
I'm throwing my line out
Hoping you'll bite and drag me in with you

I go so low until I see
It's when I hit the bottom I know for sure
It gets so pathetic when you're lonely
That you'll do anything

I can't believe what I've become
The things I say and do
Loneliness will make you throw your sense away

Here I am trying to get through
Feeling so small
Running my mouth at you
I'm feeling strange like a stranger
I'm here but I know I'm out of there
As close as I get is so far away
Am I coming off like I'm crazy?
My lack of pretense too intense?
Am I telling you more than you want to know?

Oh man, I can't believe the things I said to you
I must have been out of my mind
Landing hard on a saturday night
Walking down walked on streets
Looking through the windows at good time shows
My loneliness, how it hurts and how it shows

Visit Henry Rollins page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

