Memories, running through my brain going out, coming back again
Same old circle
Work, play, live my life away

And I hope you're coming back someday
and I hope that you have changed your ways
I hope tomorrow won't be like today
This I must confess life is nothing more and nothing less than hope

Words of love ringing in my ear shut them out, they just reappear
same old circle
Wake, sleep, try my sense to keep

And I hope you're coming back someday
and I hope that you have changed your ways
I hope tomorrow won't be like today
This I must confess
life is nothing more and nothing less
than hope

Sit along my side thinking it's no use got disgusted that I came out to find

Then I read an old love letter that you wrote and a lump began to rise up in my throat seeing all the promises that you said Once again like a fool I lost my head

Once again I hope you're coming back someday
and I hope that you have changed your ways
I hope tomorrow won't be like today
This I must confess life is nothing more or less than hope

Hope...
