"Sound Of Eve"

Evening comes and evening goes and your heart is bleeding Stars may shine and winds may blow wondering where they're leading

And your heart is pleading and the stars make shine I wonder where they're leading

There's a sight you wont believe when the leaves are falling
When you hear the sound of Eve when the birds are calling

When the leaves are falling
When you hear them calling
when you hear the sound of Eve

Have you seen the birds above
Have you seen them winging
Did you hear the song of love
Did you hear them singing

Have you seen them winging
Did you hear them singing
Did you hear the sound of Eve

The bird singing throughout the recording is the Storlom, Sweden's most beloved bird.
It's mournfull cry echos across the marshes in the evenings.
