"THE STORY OF LITTLE SOPHIE"

Little Sophie, she shines like the sun ties a bouquet of meadow flowers and violets
The sky shines glorious blue, as she slowly walks home She sits alongside her gate holding her bouquet against her cheek

Hears then a song, then a (dust) cloud appears A little soldier marches up towards her
He has striped pants* and he has a big gun
He marches so proper
A little,(but a) big soldier

Little Sophie, she shouts 'Hello' to you My name is Sophie, come here and play with me but the soldier then replies No, I must hurry on I shall go to a distant land
The whole world is on fire

(and she said) Can I go with you, I promise to be good
We will be back before nightfall
But then he replies stay here little friend for I will come back soon again and little Sophie, she waited every spring With the wind pulling towards the north knows the answers but cannot speak He will never come back but still she waits...

*can be ripped or torn pants also
