I've spent my life To get this far And now I have it all A perfect wife and a brand new car Parked outside our happy home She waves me off when I go away to work I kiss her cheek and I leave her kids and her inside They're safe inside Oh, electricity a necessity And the powerplant provides Let's go, allright I know there's something inside I know there's something allright I've seen the bright white light I know there's something inside I feel I'm just about to blow I'm ready to explode I know inside it's time to go But life is moving on How come I feel this way? I just don't know Expected to feel great Then everything came down, oh no... Electricity a necessity And the powerplant provides Let's go, allright I know there's something inside I know there's something allright I've seen the bright white light I know there's something inside I know there's something inside I know there's something allright I've seen the bright white light I know there's something inside Oh!
