Oh I like you so very much
So much in fact I gotta wake you up
It's not that I have words to speak
I just wanna see you looking at me
In a way
That states
In an hour when the sun comes up
We're gonna put on our shoes
We're gonna shake the dust
Open the door with your brand new key
We won't be afraid of being sweet to ourselves
Or anybody
Anybody else

Oh I miss you so very much
So much in fact I gotta call you up
It's not that I have news to bring
I just wanna make your telephone ring
So it shows
And you know
In a week when I fly back home
We're gonna jump in bed and be all alone
You'll make biscuits and I'll make tea
We'll curl up close and then fall asleep to the sound
Of no one else
No else around
And if I've learned anything at all
In this short life of mine (it's this):
If you hear that joy has come to town
Track it down take a picture and tape it to your eyes

Oh I love you so very much
So much in fact I'm gonna switch it up
I'm gonna take this room that I built for fun
And burn down the walls in front of everyone
So they see
You and me
Dancing in our sleepy clothes
With two big smiles and a bowl of hope
That we'll drink down like ginger tea
The heat will help us forget everything
That you and I

That you and I have seen

And if Iâ€™ve learned anything at all
In this short life of mine (itâ€™s this):
If you hear that joy has come to town
Track it down take a picture and tape it to your eyes
