I think it's getting cold outside
I think the world is creeping in
I hear the doves cry out
For help again

Every single pane is shattering
I can't help but smile as you shatter me
Glittering glass will fill me up
My love will never be enough

Down beneath this crystal moon
I know the sun will come up soon
And take away my pain tonight
And take away my pain tonight

Tonight the sky seemed brighter
Another night under this flame
I sit back and watch you
As you scream

Today the world was smaller
Another day without the stars
Between the devil and the deep blue sea
Excuse me while I bleed

Excuse me while I bleed

Every single pane is shattering
I can't help but smile as you shatter me
Glittering glass will fill me up
My love will never be enough

My love won't be enough

I need to know how this will end
I need to know if it's just a dream

Staring at this cloud-filled sky
I can't help but wonder why
We've let them win again
Let them win again

I think I hear you falling now
I can't seem to get past the sound
Of a love that threw it all away
Your love is loud and deafening

Your love is loud and deafening.
