Hold me now
Stop the morning light from breaking
Something's coming over me
Don't know what it is sub-saving
The clocks expire
They just might change everything
If I don't give you all that's waiting
Who knows what tomorrow will bring
If I try not to need you I'll be hiding from myself but all

If tomorrow never comes
I would do it all again
If the light never breaks through
I would stay until the end
If I saved it all for you
I would have my faith again
Then, then I would know it's you

Won't shed a tear for more than just a moment
Try not to let myself go crazy
Tomorrow may not come
So I won't
Hold you here
Unless you wanna fight about it
I would gladly let you win
Cause I don't need to write this ending
If I just trust the stillness
Somehow it won't hurt so bad
Oh

If tomorrow never comes
I would do it all again
If the light never breaks through
I would stay until the end
If I saved it all for you
I would have my faith again
Then, then I would know

If tomorrow never comes
I would do it all again
If the light never breaks through

I would stay until the end
If I saved it all for you
I would have my faith again
Then, then I would know
Then, then, then I would know it's you
