You drew a map so we'd remember
All the places that we went to
And although we never meant to we lost it on our way

You drew a map so we'd remember
How to get back to the highway
But instead we followed moonlight and were completely lead astray

We have traveled this way, all of our days
And we will keep on following the dotted lines
'Til we find a better place

We took a trail down to the beach where
We heard the music play before
The fires they went on forever
Like flaming jewels upon the shore

We sat there soaking up the starlight
And sang along to every song
Though we didn't know the words
We made them up as we went along

And we have traveled this way, all of our days
And we will keep on following the dotted lines

You drew a map so we'd remember
All the places that we went to
And although we never meant to we lost it on our way

And we have traveled this way, all of our days
And we will keep on following the dotted lines
'Til we find a better place

We have traveled this way, all of our days
And we will keep on following the dotted lines

We have traveled this way, all of our days
We will travel this way, all of our days

We have traveled this way, all of our days
We will travel this way, all of our days
All of our days.
