so say goodbye today.
you will never have to feel alone.
and take everything from me.
I'll never have to feel alone.

so lets end these conversations here is your congratulations you've left me bare and burned out with a broken heart and a broken mind I heard it all heals in time sit down, relax, throw back, drown out

bring out to me, bring out your best we have created such a mess there is heavy breathing on the sidelines so take your steps, step timidly you haven't seen the worst of me here is your escape scattered with field mines

Bang Bang they explode enjoy the firework show your last fence to climb is topped off with barbed-wire your going up right next to me and I'm offering gasoline empty callused hands are feeding this fire

so I stood outside your bedroom watching your tv flicker old reruns, the colors danced while the storm winds were blowing cold and I started throwing gravel trying to wake you from your sleep

then I started throwing rocks cause damn your such a creep yeah i tried to hit you right between the eyes
