dont you shut that door dont you leave to soon wanna know where i've been well i'll tell you the truth i've seen it all before none of this is new to me you said that things had changed and everything was alright you would wish i was cool and o'd wish you were nice behind that innocent face filled with guilty delights for me such an innocent lie such an innocent mind you get caught when you try to lie your whole life has been gentrified do you know what i mean? you ahd secrets to hide you think i'd never find out you said your lips were sealed and then you'd open your mouth this aint a question of guilt this is a question of doubt in you you want the world on a platter want your friends on a string you want them all to matter want them down on their knees they'll give you what you've dreamed of but it's not what you need
