[Jenn Grant]

Down by the lake you saw me
And you knew I was waiting for you
Looking in between those long reeds
Your reflection it fell upon

How we miss that love

[Buck 65]

The words written on my hand are hard to say
Game of solitaire and no card to play,
Paper airplanes so far away

[How we miss that love]

The words written on my hand are hard to say
Game of solitaire and no card to play,
Paper airplanes so far away

[Jenn Grant]

I'm crying for your letters
Looking all through the pictures that survive in the long way
To get from me to you
Get to me
You're writing me a letter
Looking for my heart to send you
Oh, it all inwards
I'm writing my heart
My heart out for you.

[Buck 65]

Distant tower hour on resistant hour signals with consistant power
Eventually the shepheard must slaughter his sheep
The sky is ripped open and the water is deep
Somewhere else your burning fire
Your tempered charms
I'm lost in the woods with no voice and empty arms
Admitting im stranded
Commiting my plan

In two stories written on my hand

[Jenn Grant]

How we miss that love (repeats)

Play me again your memory

[Buck 65]

the hands of the clock on a wall with the enemy

i feel them on my throat

Girls are called Emily

Stillness is illness, your voice is the remedy

[Jenn Grant]

Polaroid picture's gonna find me

[Buck 65]

The illusion is blinding

Aches that remind me

Finally behind me yesterday is in the fire

Drawing these words until my hand begins to tire

At war with now, desperately seeking then

Cursing my body and torturing the bleeding pen

Memories of your voice circling through rooms

Wondering where and imagining two moons

There's one for each of us, anguish is my God and grace

I keep all your lyrics in a secret hiding place

Building a boat made with a sail of paper

Words written down, no sound in the trail of vapor
