As the light across the room flickers
It's dying song waited for a reason to keep going on The sweetest smile is now turned bitter by these thoughts
So I wonder, the darker my home

I should've known all along
The love without tears,
just a story told to keep us hanging on in the cold
All along , baby, in fear I sing
Love without tears, love without tears

A ghost resides in here,
A boy who can't let go
Won't take no for an answer
Crying his home

I should've known all along
The love without tears,
just a story told to keep us hanging on in the cold
All along , baby, in fear I sing
Love without tears, love without tears

Go on and prove me wrong

I should've known all along
The love without tears,
just a story told to keep us hanging on in the cold
All along , baby, in fear I sing
Love without tears, love without tears

Go on and prove me wrong

Love without tears, love without tears
Please let me be so wrong
