The archaic traveller
Ive touched the sky
Followed the universal steps
Far beyond mortal understanding
Ive danced with elementary powers
At the nameless meadow up high

Ive tasted wisdom
Ive tasted pain
For a great eternity Ive existed
The eternal spectator
The archaic traveller

The equilibrium unbalanced
Behold the wrath of gods
The fury of the elements
Vortex of cosmic chaos

The archaic traveller
Ive seen planets being born
From the supreme primal chaos
Ive sailed the storming rivers of time
Since the beginning
To these times of the ends

But mortal remember that:
Rooms are small in Tuonela
Underground chambers narrow
No moonbeams, no sunshine
Desolate may your lifes morning be
But more desolate the deaths evening
