We get wiser when we get older
And we can get heavier that's a fact
We cry longer many years later looking back
It will do that in my youth
I had the world in my hands
I was so much like Superman
Now I'm looking through a different glass
I see things differently

If we fight to survive we'll win in the long run
To just stay alive may not be good enough
If we work hard and strive to be good
True and think twice
We are all just steps away from paradise

Always thought I was here forever
Life was all just fun and games
Not much thought about what came after
That was for fools that were too lame
And I thought love it came in numbers
So many numbers that I couldn't count
Till I found the one that mattered
A toast to her right now

If we fight to survive we'll win in the long run
To just stay alive may not be good enough
If we work hard and strive to be good
True and think twice
We are all just steps away from paradise

It's a long road they all say
That's a million miles away
Life's so different then
It seemed it's more like a sweet short dream

So you've got to survive to win in the long run
To just say alive may not be good enough
We've got to work hard and strive to be good
True and think twice
We are all just steps away
Just a few small steps away
We are all just steps away from paradise

Oh, oh, a few small steps away
Oh, oh, just a few small steps away
Oh, oh, were just steps away
