Live on location, the frontlines beamed a quiet room behind double locked doors. This just in, through static and snow, through smashed glass and teargas and give city blocks filled with smoke. Once we know the symptoms from the source it'll will come down like you've never seen before. As we confirm engines from agency it's gonna come down like you've never fucking seen. Ear to the ground, hear the quiet hum of two thousand feet moving as one. Hear the rousing anthem, the rising chorus. The late breaking wire that says everything is under control
