i miss the way you make me feel so cold and alone, so cold and alone i miss the way you make me wait by the telephone to tell you i'm trying to get by learning how to tie my own noose because you win and i lose it's been so hard but you've been so smooth so play it off and pretend you never know what you got yourself into i'll play it off and pretend i never meant a word i said now i'm starting to realize that getting lost in your eyes was the worst move, you win and i lose forever isn't long enough to get over giving so much up to someone who will throw it all away and a smile can only hide so much i choose death over your touch i fell head over heels into my grave i count my lucky stars i thank God i've seen a smile like yours but don't take it as a compliment just know it's straight from the heart now i'm driving around yeah to get lost just to find myself at any cost if i hit the brakes my heart will stop i'm taking comfort in the dark i keep saying i know your not mine but i'm praying that you'll be alright because it's hard to let go of the ones you love and i keep hoping for the best as this wound heals in my chest i know one day my best will be enough i miss the way you make me feel so cold and alone
