I can't hear you, you sound like static
I can't hear you my ears have had it bad you sound like a...

Radio with the speakers blown the treble high and the bass down low down low

Tonight I'm drowning in my favorite records trying to forget how every thread reminds me of the nights I spent with you

They play the soundtrack to my falling tears the soundtrack to this wasted year and the sleeves hide scars better than I could ever do

So turn me up when you turn me on when we hear hearts break we'll say they're playing our song

It sounds like a radio with the speakers blown the kind of sound that you'll never know treble high and the bass down low woahoh woahoh

Radio with the speakers blown
the kind of sound that you'll never know
treble high and the bass down low woahoh

The record plays to the beat of my heart and my heart you know it plays like a metronome if the record skips a beat my heart will too

It plays the soundtrack to my falling tears
the soundtrack to this wasted year
and the sleeves hide scars better than I could ever do So turn me up when you turn me on
when we hear hearts break we'll say they're playing our

It sounds like a radio with the speakers blown
the kind of sound that you'll never know

treble high and the bass down low
woahoh woahoh
Radio with the speakers blown
the kind of sound that you'll never know
treble high and the bass down low
woahoh

So I'll break these record you've always hated I'm feeling so sick and medicated aw come on why are you so nervous boy my prescriptions read like ransom notes and love letters you never wrote help me feel like I'm not paranoid

I can't hear you, you sound like static
I can't hear you my ears have had it bad it sounds like a...
