Through frost and snow my heart gets colder
For the souls grew so fast within
They broke the outward shell of sin
Beyond the wish that Heaven could give

Beyond themselves and the desire to live
Must learn the hateful art of how to forget
Apathy helps to murder before setting
Into poor hearts their real fate

My soul awake
Gone leave far beyond the stars
Find the One that will secure
The hope, the life, the cure

Courage, my soul now, learn how to wield
The weight of thin immortal shield
Worn on the head the helmet bright
Balance the sword against the fight

Moving into darkness to see
Lifeforms tortured with pain and blood
Asking for help to kill a salvation
It was their punishment for temptation

Tear my soul apart
With only one breath
And Let me die Before my death

Don't be so apathetic, find the everlasting smile
So rare, so spiritual, pure and fair
Find the great immortal instrument
Upon whose choice point shall be sent

Children ask not for the tongues of men
Find your way out by yourself
And yourself shall feel thin like heaven
And hold that motion forever...
