You gave me love that I thought was true love
Something to put my arms around
You let me love to the peak of true love
And then you let me down

You let me build a beautiful dream the first dream
That my heart had found
And I built that dream to the peak of all dreams
And then you let me down

You gave my heart the will to live and then
You threw it to the ground
When I tried to get up you helped me up
And then you let me down

You gave my heart
