I know you but you don't talk you let it all go by you won't kiss so you won't get hurt here on the other side you turn away and won't look, like you'd rather be alone
i will, you won't cause you don't try i wonder what you see looking out your window dreamin' dreamin' what could be it's hard to find a soul here, in this crowd of skin and bone i'm something to believe in let me take you far away never stop your dreamin' cause dreams are what the world is made of someday you're gonna wake up and you won't be there alone and you won't wish that you were made of stone you'll never wish that you were made of never never wish that you were made of you'll never wish you were made of stone.
