

Hogwash "Bike Ride"

Visit "Bike Ride" on MotoLyrics.com

A bike ride in darkness not afraid to move on and choosing to see winter means you'll button my coat for me.

The embrace, the kiss and the promise in your smile are warm enough to shelter me from a weak wind telling jokes that make me smile for weeks.

it is "very you" the way you carved our names

The past night I was back and reading through the lines I tried to see the day you painted our world red, sitting on my knees.

I should steal back my love to forget about mortality, and lose my way back home without telling anyone that I feel..

..that is "very you" the way you carved our names and keeps my heart true 'cause you smiled a smile that warms for miles passed through a wind that roars
