"The Whole World"

Leave, just walk out the door
And don't look back for more
Don't look back for more

Stay where your heart will not break
Find what you're looking for
Find what you're looking for

Just hold your breath
And wait for this one message to explode
The rattle and the hum of all you know

And the whole world just sings along
To every word and song
To every word and song

Keep, yeah, keep your anthem strong
And find where you belong
Find where you belong

Lose your shoe gazin' view
And rid the world of wrong
With one simple song

Just hold your breath
And wait for this one message to explode
The rattle and the hum of all you know

And the whole world just sings along
To every word and song
To every word and song

And the whole world just sings along
To every word and song
To every word and song

Hey, can you believe what you hear?
We're not taking this no more
I'm not taking this no more

Can you believe what you hear?
We're not taking this no more

I'm not taking this no more

And the whole world just sings along
To every word and song
To every word and song

And the whole world just sings along
To every word and song
To every word and song

To every word and song
To every word and song
To every word and song
