It all felt so right on the first time that I saw you
I opened my eyes and I knew I needed more of you
You walked out that room there was no way to deny you
I felt myself shake the last time that I saw you

Why must it take such hurt and pain
Who are the ones who guilt and shame
Will they stand tall and take the blame

Why must it take such hurt and pain
We share the guilt we're all the same
Who really cares who takes the blame

Go on your way little angel
They'll be friends who greet you down the line
Go on your way little angels
You'll be fine you'll be fine
