

Holly Conlan "There Is A Time"

Visit "There Is A Time" on MotoLyrics.com

There is nothing special about when the sun goes down
Except for how it changes everything
Something about the darkest hour
Something in the falling stars
Makes it hard to keep believing

And I don't need anybody
To swallow down the things that I've gone through
Said I don't need anybody
If in fact I don't get to have you

There is a time, I assume
I will get over you
The sun will rise pretty soon
Just a few more nights to get through

Harder things have found me
Darker things have come my way
But I must say I've never felt so hard

And I don't need anybody
To tell me 'bout the better days to come
Said I don't need anybody
If they don't know where I'm coming from

There is a time, I assume
I will get over you
The sun will rise pretty soon
Just a few more nights, yes, to get through

There is a time, I assume
I will get over you
The sun will rise pretty soon
Just a few more nights to get through

Visit Holly Conlan page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.