Without you ~ Holly Williams / Lori McKenna

I'm packing up to sing my songs all these towns blend into one
I'm somewhere in Madrid
I got here on crowded trains with old guitars and a famous name running like a kid, I'm running like a kid I carry 'round this old backpack full of CDs and Kerouac living on the road
I left my heart on the coast of Wales with the boy I met at the last hotel but I had to let him go That's when I was searching, I'm not searching anymore
that's when I was learning about the things worth living for before I was open, before I knew I couldn't live a day without you
I moved out west where the starlets play on the boulevards of west L.A.
And I tried to make a name but it never felt like home to me so I drove three days back to Tennessee in a slow and steady rain That's when I was searching, I'm not searching
anymore
for
without you
Without you in the morning, to love me another day without you in the evening, when the colors start to fade without you on the plane ride to hold my hand and pray without you standing here when you could've walked away Now I'm not searching, I'm not searching anymore but I'm, I'm still learning about the things worth living
for
I am here, I am open, now I know I couldn't live a day
