Be right in bed and I'll meet you with flowers
It's all in my head, till it tastes too sour
When it went down, all I thought to say was
Hello, I will see you in hell

Please stay awake now
The silence is painfully loud

I should have been there
I should have noticed
I should have been there
I should have noticed

We used to build everything out of water
It made so much sense till you spilled another
When it went down all I thought to say was
Hello, I will see you in hell

Please stay awake now
The silence is painfully loud

I should have been there
I should have noticed
I should have been there
I should have no

I should have been there
I should have noticed
I should have been there
I should have no

I should have been there
I should have noticed
I should have been there
I should have noticed
